WHEN A MAN IS MARRIED

BY ONE WHO IS

Advice to A. Goode Swain.

A. Goode Swain wrote me that he was seriously considering a plunge into the matrimonial state, and wanted to know if love was really a necessary part of his equipment. I would not reply, and submitted, for the inspection of myra, the following carbon copy:

"A. Goode Swain—Your letter at hand, and in reply will state that love is by no means necessary for married folks. I doubt if you can find that article in any well-regulated household, unless it is in the clutter of the attic. Once upon a time it was considered quite proper to carry the merry little spirit, Cupid, along on the honeymoon, and to nurture him as the years grew gray—but no longer is it thus. A. Goode Swain. Just annex a supply of Cynthia White's 'Advice to the Loveless Wife,' and Dottie Dickson's 'That Awful Husband,' and I'll guarantee that you and your bride will come out as happily as most couples do on these days of the Woman's Page."

After she had finished reading, my wife gazed at me as if she thought I had been down to one of those places where they sell things that don't get you within looking distance of the Great White Throne.

"Are you going to send that letter out?" she demanded.

"Why, of course," I replied, expecting she would scold me for being so foolish. She would have none of it.

"I am simply astounded, Robert. I thought I knew you, but I guess I don't, after all."

"I am not surprised," I said lightly. "I knew all along that there were several things about me that you were in hopeless ignorance of."

"Thanks, Robert," came the sarcasm. "For having permitted me a view of your real opinions regarding marriage, I now know that you, at least, do not consider love as having any part in our relations."

"For shame, myra!" I explained. "Don't you see that letter was written in—"

"I don't care what it was written in," she snapped. "Evidently it represents the way you feel about such things. Why, then, didn't I know this fifteen years ago?"

A stifled sob indicated that my wife threatened to take the matter seriously, and I decided I had better inform her of the true state of affairs before it was too late.

"See here, myra, let me explain," I said. "You and I like you are in the habit of reading in some of the daily papers the Answers to Questions allegedly propounded by loveless persons and others."

"I don't," she denied.

"Well, all right then, but some of your sex do."

"Yes," she admitted.

"I thought so. Now I claim that my answer to A. Goode Swain is not one whit sillier than the majority of those which so many women read and like. Of course, I don't intend sending it to any one. It's going into the wastebasket where most of those things in the so-called Answers columns ought to go."

"Myra, true little wife that she is, then entered into the jest, and we enjoyed a belated, although none the less hearty, laugh."

SEEKS BLUE AND WHITE STRIPED QUADRUPED

Preston Gibson Wagers $1,000 at Metropolitan Club That "There Ain't No Such Animal."

A story has leaked out that Preston Gibson, who added to his fame several years ago by winning a bet of $1,000 that Charley Street, of the Nationals, could catch a baseball thrown from the top of the Washington Monument, surprised the Capital City last night by making another wager of $1,000. He bet a fellow-member of the Metropolitan Club that the latter could not bring forward a four-footed animal with blue and white stripes. The bet is without conditions, except that the animal's stripes must not be more than two inches wide.

"It is just a foolish bet," said Mr. Gibson, at the Metropolitan Club. "And, moreover, I hope I lose. The fact is, as blue and white animal, I should like very much to have one. You'll remember that the world said for a long time that nobody could produce a black tulip or blue rose, but it was done. Perhaps the blue and white animal may come."

EX-MAYOR IS LAUNDRYMAN.

Didn't Like Work Done in Prison, So He Got the Job.

Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 13.—When Donn M. Roberts, former mayor of Terre Haute, Ind., convicted of election frauds, was brought to the Federal prison the officials tried to show him all possible leniency by putting him at clerical work.

Roberts' laundry was not done to suit him one day, and he went to the prison laundry to complain.

"Do you think it could be done any better?" the superintendent asked.

"I see no reason why it shouldn't," the former mayor replied. "I'd think anybody could do better work than this."

"Well, then, you're just the man we want. Get to work," said the superintendent.

Former Mayor Roberts now washes prisoners' clothes.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Most encouraging reports were received in Washington this week from the bedside of Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of Christian Endeavor, and president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union. While he is not entirely out of danger, Dr. Clark is making favorable progress toward recovery from the typhoid fever which had seriously threatened his life. He has begun to take solid food and is allowed to sit up in bed for short periods.

E. P. Gates, field secretary of the Illinois Christian Endeavor Union, formerly president of the Christian Endeavor Union of the District of Columbia, spent three days in Washington during the present week. He visited the Kellar Memorial Church on Sunday, and held a conference with the executive committee of the local union on Tuesday afternoon, after which he returned to Chicago. Dr. Clark is making favorable progress toward recovery from the typhoid fever which had seriously threatened his life. He has begun to take solid food and is allowed to sit up in bed for short periods.

The new pastor of Kendall Baptist Church, Rev. Walter S. Dunlop, will enter upon his duties in that church on the first Sunday of September. He comes from the Baptist Church of Oil City, Pa., where he has served as pastor for the past four years. His wife and two children will accompany him. Mr. Dunlop, who died in April of this year.

He has filled pastorate in Deland and Lake City, Fla., and Crawfordville, Atlanta, and other cities in Georgia.

Rev. James R. L. Diggs, Ph. D., the president of Clayton-Williams University of Baltimore, Md., who has recently been called to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of West Washington, will fill the pulpit of Shiloh Baptist Church tomorrow at the morning service. Dr. Diggs is one of the out-of-town pastors selected to fill the pulpit of Shiloh during the vacation of the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. Milton Waldron.

The extension department of the Christian Endeavor Union has begun a campaign in the District based upon President Clark's message to the recent World's Convention of Christian Endeavor, "mobilize, vitalize, and evangelize."

Dr. Clark inaugurated the "million movement," in his suggested campaign for the next international convention. He urges the young people to secure a million new converts and church members, a million new Endeavorers, a million new dollars for missions, and a million new members of the peace union. The local union has ascertained the extent of the mission movement in the District, and through the extension department, of which A. G. Grinnell is superintendent, is bringing about the extension of the young people's societies of Washington.

At Washington Cathedral, Wisconsin and Massachusetts avenues, the open-air service around peace cross will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The sermon will be given by Rev. George F. Dudley, rector of St. Stephen's.

As chaplain of the District National Guard, he will go into camp on Monday of next week, and during his absence the new assistant rector of St. Stephen's, Rev. E. H. Stevens, will be in charge. Rev. Dr. Forest J. Prettymann, pastor of Mount Pleasant M. E. Church South, has returned from a Southern trip, when he delivered addresses at Lake Junaluska and Asheville, N. C. He will conduct the usual preaching services at Mount Pleasant Church tomorrow. During the hot weather Dr. Prettymann is spending the summer at his home with his family on his farm near Rockville.

A called meeting of the official board of Mount Pleasant Church will be held on August 22 to make recommendations concerning the projected new chapel to be erected at the corner of Sixteenth and Lamont streets. A congregational meeting will be held on the evening of August 23 to receive and act upon the report of the board. It is hoped that the new building can be completed before the new year.

Washington Union Epworth League, M. E. Church South, will hold its annual outing next Saturday afternoon and evening near Pierce Mill, in Rock Creek Park. For those who do not care to walk from the end of the Mount Pleasant car line jitney buses will be provided. The affair will be under the leadership of the third department of the union, and the athletic contests will be directed by D. H. Sherman, of Emory Church. Box lunches will be carried.

At the August business meeting of the Mount Vernon Place Chapter, Epworth League, A. E. Martin was re-elected president, and the following new officers were chosen: W. C. Warren, vice president; Miss Eula M. Dawkins, secretary; Miss Ethel Hoff, corresponding secretary; John Wood, treasurer.

Tomorrow morning's sermon at Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church will be preached by Rev. B. W. Weeks. The Epworth League service will be held at 7:30.

UNITARIAN.

The General Conference of the Unitarian and other Christian churches will hold its next session in San Francisco, Cal., September 1 to 10, 1915. Dr. C. C. Roper, assistant postmaster general, Taft, former President of the United States and president of the conference, presiding. This conference was formed in 1825, and holds its sessions every second year. With the exception of one meeting held in Chicago, these sessions have been held in the Atlantic Coast States, those for 1899 and 1901 having been held in Washington. For 1915, as a part of a home mission of church extension movement, the conference meets in the historic First Unitarian Church in San Francisco, the church founded by Rev. Thomas Starr King, the man who by his preaching and lectures in California, and who held California in the Union at the breaking out of the civil war.

Many prominent Unitarian clergymen, including Dr. U. G. B. Pierce, pastor of the Unitarian Church in Washington, turned their faces to the West with the opening of their summer vacations and began the journey to the Pacific Coast, stopping to speak in the cities west of the Mississippi River. A special excursion train, with a number of long stops for religious meetings and for the lake and mountain scenery. An additional car is to leave Chicago and be filled with passengers from that city and to the southeast of it. The list of excursionists on this special train numbers 23, of whom thirty-three are lawyers and twelve clergymen. Four are from the city of Washington. With the numbers carried on this special train and those who, like Dr. Pierce and wife, started westward at an earlier date, it is now certain that the conference will be largely attended. The few scattered churches in the far West will be fully represented, and the sessions of the conference promise to be of a character to attract attention and exert large influence upon the churches of the district. The clergymen going West by the special train and those previously going by other routes will arrange their homeward journeys so as to speak in all of the important Western cities and thus assist in making this season of the conference a great stimulus to the church extension movement.
